DETAILED ACTION

This Office Action is responsive to the Amendment received on January 5, 2005.

Preliminary Remark

The addition of new claim 46 is acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The rejection of claims 21-45 under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter, made in the Office Action mailed on October 6, 2004 is withdrawn in view of the Amendment received on January 5, 2005.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The rejection of claims 21-26, 29-41, and 43-45 under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Southgate et al. (U.S. Patent No. 5,863,801, issued January 26, 1999), made in the Office Action mailed on October 6, 2004 is withdrawn in view of the Amendment received on January 5, 2005.

Necessitated by Amendment

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 21, 22, 24, 32, 37, and 46 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Zanzucchi et al. (U.S. Patent No. 5,755,942, issued May 26, 1998).

Art Unit: 1637

Zanzucchi et al. disclose a device and its method of use comprising a plurality of modules (element 48, Figure 1B), each module comprising a plurality of wells arranged in serial pattern (therefore, having an initial and subsequent level), said wells connected by a microchannel (thus a reaction line)(element 38, Figure 1B), each well corresponding to different reactions (thus at least one processing at each well or level) (column 4, lines 40-49), and at least two valves controlling the fluid flow from one chamber to the next (Figures 6A-B and column 9, line 61 to column 10, line 5), thereby anticipating claims 21-22 and 32.

The microchannel (or the reaction line) of the module (element 48, Figure 1B) is perpendicular to the end of the microfluidic device (Figure 1B), anticipating claim 24.

The device of Zanzucchi et al. comprises a fluid inlet (element 34 or 50, Figure 1B) and a separate fluid outlet (microchannel connecting each of the chambers serves as fluid outlet from each chamber), thereby anticipating claim 46.

Vertical insertion of sample is disclosed (column 4, lines 25-27), anticipating claim 37.

Therefore, Zanzucchi et al. anticipate the invention as claimed.

Conclusion

No claims are allowed.

Claims 23, 25-31, 33-36, and 38-45 are objected to for being dependent on a rejected base claim.
